MACLEOD MEMBER ADVOCATES FEDERAL AID TO COAL INDUSTRY

Ottawa, April 8.—A subsidy for Alberta coal shipped east of Manitoba, as an aid to employment in the Alberta coal fields, was urged in the House of Commons last night by G. G. Coote, U.F.A., Macleod.

He said there was much unemployment in the mines, and it was aggravated by the policy of the operators in working the mines at high pressure during short seasons of the year, in order to fill the annual requirements of the railways. In addition to a subsidy, he suggested the Government should call a conference between the railways, the mine-owners and the miners' union to work out some scheme by which the orders of the railway companies for coal could be spread over the whole year. In this way employment in the coal mines could be stabilized.

The Western coal operators faced the handicap of heavy freight rates on eastbound coal to Winnipeg. Referring to the requirements of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Mr. Coote said that they would be half a million tons less than last year. In view of that, it was absolutely necessary to grant the coal industry a subvention for at least three years in order to allow Canadian bituminous coal to establish itself in Winnipeg.

Mr. Coote suggested that a Royal Commission be organized in order to inquire into the coal industry. Such a proposal had the support of the all-Canadian Congress of Labor and the Mine Workers' Union of Canada. There was real distress among the coal miners. In one part of Alberta the men were so poverty stricken they could not pay for the milk delivered for their children.

Mr. Coote felt that the responsibility fell primarily on the Dominion government, rather than the provincial. The conditions were brought about largely by the immigration policy of the government, for a large number of these miners came to Canada as agricultural workers.

AIR MAIL THROUGH CROWS' NEST PASS MOST LIKELY

According to announcement a test air mail service will be established between Lethbridge and Vancouver, through the Crows' Nest Pass, during June, July and August, and the department of the postmaster general has called upon prominent aero companies for tenders on the run. Information to this effect was received at Lethbridge Monday. Tenders are based on a mileage basis, allowing one trip each day each way during daylight. A cruising speed of 120 miles an hour is stipulated as one of the requirements.

An obituary notice has been standing in type in our office for the past eight years, and we have tired of so waiting for the individual to end his earthly worries that we have decided to add to the bill eight cents per year. This is only falling in line with the ordinary run of things, you know.

"I forgot you didn't know I was here to supper. I invited myself, and we ate in the front room so as not to miss any of the excitement! I washed the dishes while Grandma got ready for our supper. I tell you, she's some sport!"

Charman joined in his laugh, though what she said was a sudden dealer for tears. She couldn't have said just why, but a wave of tenderness for this old friend had overwhelmed her. Jim was so kind, she told herself. What other man would have washed those dishes just to save her a little trouble? What other man would have jollied an old lady all the evening, when he could have been with the young folks at the church festival? What did it matter if he was a bit under his mother's thumb?

Possibly the young man felt her yielding in some subtle way, for he said suddenly: "The moon will be full tomorrow night, won't it? Will you go for a ride, Charman?"

They both turned at a sound behind them. The new doctor stood in the doorway, hesitating to interrupt, perhaps, but at any rate he came clear-cut and straight. He wore a gray frock coat, and the girl's shoulders.

"Four grandmother says you'll take your death of cold," he explained, with a grin that made him very boyish; and Charman replied, laughing: "Did she think I was going to stay out till morning? Good-night, Jim. Thanks for everything; and of course I'll go for a ride tomorrow evening. I'd love it."

Jim, who had been cursing the innocent doctor beneath his breath, and thinking that Charman hadn't noticed his invitation, went off in such a haze that he barely escaped colliding with a lamp post.

Grandma Davis seemed none the worse for having, and was up for breakfast, and eager to hear the news.

"You tell me everything about the supper," she demanded, as Charman poured the coffee. "Did you have a good time, Doctor?" And was that Darling girl upset because her young man didn't show up? Did she wear the hat?"

"She did," answered the doctor. "In fact, it was the first thing that caught my eye when we arrived. It's not a bad hat, really, and, as your granddaughter pointed out, it is becoming; but if the young lady was disturbed because you cut her out last night, she concealed it well."

Charman threw him a laughing glance.

"Miss Darling found fresh hunting, Grandma," she explained. "Poor Jimmy was forgotten."

"You fatter me!" retorted the doctor, arising to make her sweeping bow; while Grandma exclaimed as he resumed his seat:

"Do you mean to say that she made eyes at you, Doctor? She must be braced!"

"Am I so impossible as all that?" he asked reproachfully.

Grandma shook her head as she went on: "But you're a doctor, even if you haven't got one foot in the grave yet, and—dignified!"

"Good Lord!" he cried, disgusted, "I didn't suspect it!"

"For consolation, let me add: that you are not too dignified," smiled Charman. "Surely not enough so to resent the advances of—"

"Charman!" reproved her grandmother, "you shouldn't talk so—" freely to the doctor. Of course he's dignified! A doctor has to be or folks wouldn't take his medicine. Even Edward Howe is dignified when he's a mind to be; though I remember years ago when—well, maybe it isn't nice for me to tell it, but I remember when he threw a spit ball at the teacher. It was at District Four."

"I venture to guess that the teacher deserved it," said John Carter, his eyes brimming with fun.

"That was the worst of it," went on Grandma seriously. "She didn't throw no spit ball, she just threw it till she burst crying. She'd been snapping the children's heads off for two days, and when Edward threw the spit ball, sort of to relieve everybody's feelings as well as his, it was the last straw. She began to cry, and come to find out her mother was sick and she was worried most to death—" afraid to ask leave to go home at that time of year for fear she'd lose her job and feeling dreadfully. She was so stirred up she just burst out the whole story to us children. I suppose she hardly knew what she was doing, and it was a relief to say what was in her mind."

"Well, you better believe that boy was ashamed of himself. He apologized right before us all. And he apologized that poor woman on the shoulder, for all the world the way, years after. I've seen him put his patients when he was sorry for 'em, when he knew clear it all comes back! Kate Knowles (she was George K's aunt and the girl that Edward Howe was engaged to later), was crying in sympathy; and so was Lizzie Baker, though she wasn't but six years old. But Deacon Howe was on the school board then, and when Edward went home and told the story, his father gave the teacher a month's leave, and she went off that very afternoon."

"Did her mother die?" asked Charman, who invariably became absorbed in Grandma's reminiscences.

"No, child, she got better and came to live in Wickfield. They were real nice folks, and stayed here till the daughter got a school in Portland. Dear me! here I wanted to hear about the festival, and instead I've been talking for five minutes, boring you to death most likely, too. Are you going to finish fixing the doctor's office this morning, Charman?"

"I'm going to fix it myself," declared the doctor. "If your granddaughter will tell me what to do, I'm thrilled at that office, Mrs. Davis. It's a dream come true!"

"Maybe you'd better call me Grandma to start with," said the old lady. "I don't know when any one's said

"What do you mean? You sound subtle; and I warn you that subtlety is a quality I can't abide."

A Public Danger

Caught Disease On the HANDS!

Skin disease threatens us every day. Invisible germs, blood poisons, eczema, etc., are waiting to infect the least cut or sore place. The money you use carries germs—you get them on the handles, rails and straps of the trains and street cars, and in a score of other ways. Soiled hands—Zam-lak, Mr. Henry C. Davis, of South 15th Street, Kansas City, U.S.A., has just escaped a virulent type of eczema, contracted, he suspects, through use of public toilets.

"I had medical advice," he says, "tried in addition all sorts of so-called eczema remedies, without finding the hoped-for relief. Zam-lak treatment soon gave positive results. It took away the painful irritation and quickly purified and healed the deep troublesome sores."

Mrs. to me, and it don't sound natural. Everybody calls me Grandma, even Edward Howe who was only two years back of me in school. Folks in Wickfield might not know who you meant if you said Mrs. Davis."

"It's very good of you to let me—"

Grandma, answered the young man, smiling. "It makes me feel like one of the family."

"That's how I want you to feel, sunny," she responded; while Charman laughed and said:

"Is that the way to address a dignified physician? I'm surprised, at you, Grandma! Soon as I get these dishes out of the way, Doctor, I'll join you in the office, and in the meantime you can carry the biggest books up attic. By afternoon you'll be ready for your first patient. Aren't you thrilled at the thought?"

"It shall be more thrilled when he arrives!" answered John Carter. "Here's hoping I don't starve while waiting for him."

Grandma shook her head.

"I never saw you as a wet blanket; but you may as well allow the fact right off that Wickfield folks are set in their ways, and they're used to Edward Howe. Isn't that some one in the shop? I heard the door open. You lent me a hand, sonny, and I'll see to 'em so Charman can get right to work."

A half hour later when Charman looked in at the new office, John Carter was washing a box of his own books and placing them on the shelves.

"Let me hand them to you," she suggested. "You don't want to put them to put them, and I don't." She glanced at the back of a big volume, and said, so soberly that the doctor laughed: "Gray's Anatomy? What a horrible title! Do you know I can't help feeling sorry for these shelves, supporting such dry subjects for years and years. I think I'll present you with some detective stories, or something lively in the way of novels. A risque volume might be a relief to these poor shelves after being so deadly respectable for fifty years. First the ponderous law weighing them down, and now—" she sighed despairingly as she wiped the dust from "Oster's Practice," and held it out.

"Bring on your jazz," invited John Carter as he reached for the despised volume. "I dare say I need it, after a pretty steady diet of the other thing. But I believe you'll find one or two less hopeless subjects in that last box. Let's carry it here on the desk, and then I'll carry off the packages and we can hear up the stairs. When he returned she was smiling over "Pep's Diary," and remarked wickedly: "I think I'll take this in to Grandma. I'd like to see how she'd react to it, wouldn't you?"

"I don't believe so, and her comments might be valuable! I'm glad to say that you're a devotee of 'Sherlock Holmes,'—and Dickens. I think there's hope for you despite the dignity that Grandma mentioned."

He actually flushed.

"Say, do I put on airs—behave like an idiot or anything?" Charman laughed.

"It seems to have got a rise out of you," she said. "Don't worry. I haven't detected any airs, nor the first sign of idiosyncrasy. In Grandma's day a doctor never appeared in public without a full beard, and a frock coat. She was shocked to death when Doctor Howe began to dress like a civilized being and shaved off his whiskers; but in her eyes he can do no wrong. Because he brought you here you'll appear the ideal M.D. to her, dignity and all. That's why she was appalled at the brazenness of the green hat!"

The doctor laughed as he replied: "Poor old hat! It seems to have stirred up a tempest in a teapot."

"It's a new hat," corrected Charman, "and a tempest isn't a patch on what it has stirred up."

He raised his eyes quickly.

London Bus Driver Emigrates

Solves Traffic Jam Problems By Breaking Away To Wide Open Spaces Of Western Canada

It took twenty-one years for A. W. J. Powell, bus-driver, to weary of the whirl and roar of London traffic and break away to the great open spaces. But at last the bus yielded to the plow, and this spring will find Powell on the land somewhere in the prairies.

His home had a great deal to do with it. Alfred Arthur Edward, who is twenty, came to Canada in 1926, and liked the country so well that he persuaded a younger brother, William Henry Charles, to join him the following year. Places were found in the prairie for the two boys by the Canadian National Railways. Their experiences convinced the father that it was time to forsake the bus, and arrangements were therefore made by the European Colonization Organization of the Canadian National Railways for the family to sail for Canada in March. The Winnipeg office will help them decide where to make their future home.

Before leaving London, Powell confessed that he had always had a hankering for a farm.

"I like bus driving first rate, but the traffic jams in London are a bit of a nuisance. The best way to solve the traffic problem is to move out of it, and I'm told there aren't many traffic jams on the Canadian prairies. I always had in my mind's eye a place of my own in one of the Dominions."

Powell was one of the many London bus-drivers who drove London buses in France during the war, and he was one of the forty who went to Buckingham Palace in 1919, to be received by the King.

Line To Churchill

Not Complete Yet

Report of Immediate Train Service To Churchill Is Denied By C.N.R.

The report which has gained newspaper circulation that the Canadian National Railways will inaugurate regular passenger train service between The Pas and Churchill in April is incorrect according to A. A. Tisdale, general manager, western railways division, at Regina, Sask.

A report which emanated from The Pas apparently found its beginning in the intention of the company to move to Churchill, in the near future.

Regular passenger trains required by the Government for the continuation of dock and elevator facilities at Churchill this summer. The last ninety miles of the line to Churchill has received only the first lift of rail, and it will have to be given a second lift before it can be turned over by the construction to the operating department for regular service.

Ballooning work can only be done when the weather moderates and it is not expected that the line will be ready for the operation of passenger trains until well on into the summer and no scheduled passenger or freight service is under contemplation by the company at the present time beyond Mile 329.

With so thorough a preparation at hand, Miller's Warm Powders, the mother who allows her children to suffer from the ravages of worms, is unduly selfishly careless.

A child subjected to the attacks of worms is always unhealthy, and will be stunted in its growth. It is a merciful act to rid it of these intestinal parasites, especially when it can be done without difficulty.

Alberta Coal Production

Coal Mines Of Province Produced 7,147,250 Tons In Year 1929

Alberta coal mines produced 7,147,250 tons of coal, valued at $22,481,061 during the year 1929, according to the annual report of A. A. Millar, chief inspector of mines for the province. In addition to the coal mined there were 77,197 tons of shale mined which with 26,077,733 bricks were manufactured.

Combine-Harvested Wheat

Combined-harvested wheat in Canada compares very favourably with binder-harvested wheat from a milling and baking standpoint. In general no difference could be observed between the two in regard to these qualities, although in one season at least the combine-harvested wheat was slightly superior to the binder-harvested wheat.

For any BABY

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother who does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.

Produces Artificial Fever

Scientist Tells Of Possibilities Of New Discovery

Discovery of a new short length wave, that may easily be developed into a death ray, but also may have great curative properties, was announced, at Philadelphia, by E. L. Manning, of the General Electric Company's research laboratories.

Speaking before the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia, Mr. Manning said:

"We have learned to build vacuum tubes which will broadcast such a short length wave that people in the neighborhood will have their blood temperatures raised. This means that we can produce artificial fever and hold it under control, within any limits we choose."

Manning stated that if natural fever was "an attempt on the part of the body to kill off bacteria that attack it, as is believed, this new discovery may prove of startling value in the treatment of disease."

The ray, Manning said, could easily be used to induce such a high fever in human beings that it would result in death.

"We are experimenting with rabbits and rats," said Mr. Manning, "and the results are most encouraging. Diseases corresponding to those of humans appear to have been eliminated by these artificial fevers," he said.

Little Helps For This Week

"Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee."—Psalm lv, 22.

Child of my love, lean hard, And let Me feel the pressure of thy care.

I know thy burden, child; I shaped it. Poised it in mine own hand, and made no proportion.

In its weight to thine unaided strength; For even as I laid it on I said, I shall be near, and while she leans on Me

This burden shall be Mine, not hers. So shall I keep My child within the circling arms

Of Mine own love. Here lay it down, nor fear To impose it upon a shoulder which upholds

The government of worlds. Yet closer come thy care.

Thou art near enough; I would embrace thy care. So I might feel My child reposing on my breast.

Thou lovest Me? I know it. Doubt not then, But loving Me lean hard.

—Paul Pastore.

He that takes his own care upon himself loads himself in vain with an uneasy burden. —Bishop Hall.

CHAIN LETTERS

Somewhat up in Newham, Mass., who still believes in Santa Claus, sent a chain letter to a member of The Casket staff the other day. The office boy who had been looking for a chance to do his daily good deed, took the letter cheerfully to the furnace, where it did its little towards keeping warm the willing workers on this great family journal. The letter promised good luck to the person who would copy it and send it to four others, and had luck to the miscreant who might break the chain. In making these predictions, however, the letter was wrong. Local neocommunicers say that according to the latest theory the person who continues the chain will get it in the neck for wasting his own time and for being a nuisance to his friends. Serve him right too! Chains have their uses on muddy roads and in logging operations, but they are out of date when applied to correspondence.—Casket.

Speaking of the special Lenten services conducted at the Pincher Creek by Rev. R. C. Taylor, B.A., of Lethbridge, formerly of Hillcrest, the Pincher Creek Echo says: "Rev. Taylor's fine personality, coupled with a deep sincerity, gave to his fervent messages an appeal that will linger long in the hearts of the people."

VETERAN PUBLISHER DIES

HALIFAX, N.S., April 7.—Charles C. Blackadar, veteran publisher of the Acadia Recorder, died here last night after an illness of four months. He was 82 years old.

His illness began as a slight cold in December, and forced him to bed for some time.

Charles C. Blackadar was born in Halifax about 1848 in the house in which the first printing press was set up in Halifax. His father was Hugh W. Blackadar, publisher of the Acadia Recorder, which had been established January 1, 1812, and which he took over when his father died in 1863. He learned the printing trade with his father and was taken in as a partner in 1869.

THE NEW HYDRATORFRIGIDAIRE

Use of the recently introduced Frigidaire Hydrator to preserve the crisp freshness of leafy vegetables and similar foods for long periods of time has proved such a popular subject with housewives everywhere, that Crows' Nest Pass Motors, Limited, local dealers, have arranged a special demonstration at the local showroom, April 17th.

"Since the announcement of the new Hydrator, we have received scores of visitors who want this new development in the field of household refrigeration explained," they said. "Information that the Hydrator is an important aid in the preparation of tasty, fresh salads of all kinds has aroused such general interest that this special demonstration has been decided upon."

The demonstration will be held from nine o'clock in the morning until ten o'clock at night. Salads will be prepared from vegetables which have been freshened in the Hydrator. Desserts, frozen with the aid of the famous Frigidaire Cold Control, will be served to visitors. Many other features have been arranged for the demonstration, it was announced.

The Frigidaire salad book, containing many methods for the preparation of a wide variety of dishes, will be distributed during this period. This book is a companion piece to the Frigidaire frozen desserts booklet, more than half a million of which were requested by housewives during the first few months after the announcement of the Cold Control last year.

SUBSCRIBE TODAY!ENGLISH PEDIGREEED CATTLE, SHEEP, FOR PRINCE OF WALES' RANCH*SAINT JOHN, N.B., Mar. 8-H.

R. H. the Prince of Wales is keenly interested in improving the standard of livestock in Canada and accordingly is procuring sixty head of pedigree cattle and sheep from his ranches in England, for shipment to his High River ranch in Alberta, stated Professor W. L. Carlyle, manager of the latter establishment, who sailed today on the C.P.R., S.S. Minnedosa. Professor Carlyle will remain in England only one week, and will return with 30 head of sheep and 20 head of cattle. He will sail April first for St. John with this consignment.

This shipment will be the first which the Prince of Wales has sent from England to his Canadian ranch in four years, the Professor said. The English ranches which are famous for the quality of their live stock are located in Nottingham and Cornwall. The cattle will be selected from the shorthorns, while the sheep will be of the Hampshire breed. Livestock raised on the Prince's farm, which is about 60 miles from Calgary, is sold widely in Canada and United States. Prof. Carlyle asserted, and to date the animals have been marketed in all the provinces of Canada, except the Maritimes as well as eight states in the United States. Clydesdale and Percheron draught horses from the farm will be exhibited at the Spring shows at Calgary and Edmonton, he said.

It is probable that the Prince of Wales will not meet the manager of his ranch while the latter is in England, as Prof. Carlyle's sailing date will likely precede by a few days the arrival of the Prince in England, after a visit to South Africa.

The Minnedosa which sailed at about 3 p.m. yesterday, carried about 3000 passengers, among whom was Lady Nanton of Winnipeg. The destination of the vessel were Liverpool and Glasgow. Lady Nanton was former Chatelaine of Government House, Winnipeg.—Ex.

Science, invention and modern industry have combined together to enrich life and lift it up to new standards of living, but it has left men unsatisfied. In their souls is a void that will not be filled by anything this machine age has to give. Everywhere one meets with a wistful longing for the deep and abiding things of the soul. This is the darkness that is upon us, but there is a dawning light. This Pre-Easter message may help you.

C. J. Doherty, representing the Red Star Dominion and the White Star lines of steamships, was in town the early part of the week in the interest of a special excursion being planned to Europe.

Regarding the auto accident that befel Mr. and Mrs. Davis (the latter formerly of Cowley) in California recently, we learn that Mrs. Davis was the only member of the family to suffer fatally and that Mr. Davis and little son are recovering in hospital. The accident happened but a short distance from where Mr. and Mrs. Mark Drumm, former residents of Frank, now live, and eight cars were piled in a heap, all caused by some irresponsible driver.

The Stumbling Block

Whatever may be the outcome of the naval conference in session in London, and at the time of writing it is still problematical and obscure, the fact that leading statesmen of the world, engrossed, as they are, with many domestic and other problems, and carrying heavy responsibilities, have for months doggedly persevered in their efforts to find common ground upon which a reduction of armaments could be brought about, is, in itself, one of the most hopeful signs for world peace.

Not many years ago such a conference would have, long ere now, broken up in an open confession of failure, with national feelings more embittered than ever, and a still more feverish renewal of warlike preparations on the part of all nations. Even if the present conference does not succeed in reaching a formal and unanimous agreement, the persistency, the intensity with which those participating have sought for a solution is encouraging and full of hope for ultimate future success.

The proceedings of the conference as they have dragged along week after week, have proven the sincerity of the statements made by the various representatives at the opening session, namely, that they and the governments they represent are keenly desirous of reaching an agreement, that they are anxious to make future wars impossible, that they believe in the letter and spirit of the Kellogg peace pact, and to that end are willing to make what they consider sacrifices to achieve a reduction in armaments and a consequent lessening of the possibilities of war and of the burden of taxation imposed upon their people.

This sincerity of purpose has been demonstrated over and over again. When any particular formula or plan was found to be unacceptable in any particular to any one nation, the others sought for amendments that would meet the objections raised. When the objections urged were found to be insurmountable, that formula or plan was discarded, and something different brought forward. Step by step, in sub-conferences innumerable, by direct negotiations between those countries which were farthest apart in their views, difficulties were gradually overcome.

Just how much has been accomplished, the world does not yet know; perhaps little of a really definite nature. But the whole effect has been beneficial. It is beyond all question that the nations now understand and appreciate each other's viewpoints and difficulties better than ever before, because it is quite evident that the negotiations have been conducted with great frankness, and yet with an absence of that bitterness and ill-feeling which existed in past years. Whatever the present outcome, the way, we repeat, has been paved to ultimate success.

And what is the obstacle to immediate success, assuming that it cannot at this time be achieved? It is that the centuries-old racial dislikes, suspicions, superiority complexes, and religious differences still project themselves and live in this twentieth century. The Christian era, such and every nation indignantly denies and rejects the idea that they entertain, desire or propose any policy or act of aggression against any other nation. But each and every nation is, nevertheless, demanding security against other nations. In a word, while professing their own honesty of purpose, they remain doubtful and suspicious of their neighbors.

Here in Canada we may find it somewhat difficult to understand this attitude, and be inclined to question the sincerity of those who adopt it. But if we pause for a moment and ponder over the problem a bit, we will, perhaps, come to appreciate the European viewpoint somewhat better. And in doing so we, too, may learn a lesson of importance to ourselves, our communities, and our Dominion.

After all, what is the old cause of friction, ill-will, bitterness and suspicion right here in Canada, and in our own community? Does it not arise out of differences in racial origin, different languages employed, differing forms by and through which we worship the same God? Are we not suspicious and distrustful of our neighbors simply because their racial origin differs from our own, because their mother tongue is not ours, because their religious thought and church observances differ from ours? We feel that they should conform to our ideas and ways of thought, and because we feel this, we imagine that they, in turn, are trying to impose their ways upon us.

It is the same European nightmare in a somewhat milder form. We want and demand security. Instead of armies, rifles, and explosives, we have laws, regulations, prohibitions. France would bring all Europe to her way of thinking, Germany to her way. We, in Canada, seem to demand complete assimilation, absolute uniformity. It is the same principle. And it is a principle if persisted in, and carried to its logical conclusion, results in ill-feeling, bitterness and strife, and makes peace impossible of attainment.

A broader education, a truer appreciation of the fact that all men are brothers, that a man's man for a' that, a nearer approach to the spirit of the Christ, is an essential of world disarmament and peace, just as it is an essential to community betterment and national peace and progress. Demands for security will only be unnecessary and die when we no longer entertain suspicions and fears of those against whom we would arm in one form or another.

War Restrictions Raised

One of the last remaining relics of the Great War has been 'abolished' by the League of Nations. This is the series of import and export restrictions which were enacted by the various nations during the war to prevent exportation of raw materials and manufactured articles necessary for them to carry on the conflict. As the years rolled by and the regulations were not repealed world trade was seriously hampered.

Drummond Was a Telegrapher

Recalls When Well Beloved Habitant Foot Held Down Night Trick

Dr. Drummond going out into the parishes of ancient Quebec, attending the sick, listening to old stories and songs, with his eyes and ears always open and his sympathy tuned to catch the simple life of the habitant in its many phases, is a familiar figure in Canadian literature. Not so well known is the Drummond of the seventies, before he wrote "L'États," "The Wreck of the Julie Plante" and the other ditties that have become so well-beloved. In the seventies, Drummond was an undergraduate at McGill College, studying medicine and his sympathy was all day and at night operating a telegraph key.

"Bill held down the same trick on the Associated Press wire as I did later on," says Thomas Rodger, special representative of the Canadian National Railway's telegraph and telephone department, who has just retired after 56 years' service with the system. "Bill was on the night trick necessarily, as he was attending McGill College during the day." Rodger recalls Drummond's forsaking the press wire on receiving his degree and going into practice and remembers the favor with which the McGill College during the day. The Wealth Of India

Apart from the Indian States there are probably many more millionaires in British India than in America, and they are all, or nearly all, Indian. But these fortunes enormous as they are in the aggregate, are unquestionably a mere fraction of the still more marvellous wealth which exists in the shape of gold and silver hoards throughout the vast domain of India, whether British India, or the Indian States.

Delfy Curse Of Pharaohs

The king and queen of the Belgians have defied the reputed curse of the Pharaohs. With Howard Carter, excavator of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, visited the tomb in the Valley of the Kings, and neither indicated any bad luck was expected. Thereafter the king walked nearly two miles from his yacht into Karnak.

Standing Up Under Loss

Prices More Than Market Crash To Down Canadians

During the recent market crash, paper losses sustained by Canadian land and unlimited stocks amounted to more than $5,000,000,000. This is more than double the gross funded debt of the Dominion, or $85 per capita.

And yet, with a loss of more than five billion dollars, the people of Canada can go about their business with little more than the embarrassment of feeling sheepish over being had. The truth is that no stock crash can knock the props out from beneath a country that has trillions of dollars in natural resources, both mined and unmined.

The mines alone of this Dominion are worth more than the total resources of Germany, France and Italy. Our forests and fisheries have more latent wealth than the combined wealth of all the Balkan states.

Our annual exportable wheat crop is worth more than the goods that Spain has produced for export in the past fifty years.

That is why Canadians can take a little financial blow of $5,000,000,000 without feeling it.

British Post Office To Provide Direct Wireless Phone Service

Canada and Britain are to be linked by direct wireless telephone. The House of Commons recently debated the respective merits of the Marconi and the British post office wireless systems. Hon. H. B. Lees-Smith, postmaster-general, revealed that the Canadian government had expressed a desire for direct service. The direct service will be provided by the post office. Arguing the general merits of the post office system as contrasted with Marconi's, the postmaster-general said the lower costs of the Marconi system enabled it to give three wave lengths to each Dominion. The Marconi system provided two to most of the Dominions and only one for Australia.

NO AID FROM OTTAWA FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

Ottawa.—Ottawa will not provide a five-cent piece to any Tory government in any of the provinces for unemployment relief. Premier W. L. Mackenzie King told members of the House of Commons. This attitude was taken by Premier King, when he spoke in the debate that was precipitated by A. A. Heaps (Lab., Winnipeg North). The Labor member moved an amendment to the motion to go into supply, urging that the government take immediate action to deal with the unemployment situation.

The Federal Government is without power to embark upon any legislation like unemployment relief, for the British North America Act invests the provinces with all jurisdiction in matters of this character, the premier held. His remarks caused a sensation in the House and were Conservative cries of "shame" when he declared that the Federal Government, after reducing taxes and adding to the exchequer since 1921 was not prepared to distribute these savings among the Conservative governments of Saskatchewan, British Columbia, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Any government headed by a Progressive premier would be looked on with favor in regard to unemployment relief. He said that no request had come from the Alberta, or Saskatchewan governments for relief.

The prime minister spoke for two hours. He did not believe there existed in Canada at present an emergency which would justify the Federal administration in embarking on any program of unemployment relief or engaging in any scheme of unemployment insurance. There must always be a certain amount of seasonal slackness in outdoor work during the winter months in Canada. That had always been the case and always would be. He did not feel that the Federal Government was called upon to ask the taxpayers to bear a burden which rightly lay on the provinces.

On Monday last, said Premier Mackenzie King, he had moved the House into committee of supply, but Mr. Heaps had moved an amendment requesting the government to act in the matter of unemployment. The House was far from united as to what was in Mr. Heaps' mind. One phase that had been emphasized was that unemployment was a national problem. He didn't think this could be questioned, but a great deal depended on what inferences would be drawn from it. If it meant a national problem to the exclusion of the provinces, and no other way, then the point could be admitted.

There must be, in an endeavor to meet this problem, some division of labor, Mr. King said. The League of Nations may do something to a solution, but its part would be vastly different from that of a municipality. Because it has been conceded unemployment was a national problem, some members had inferred that an emergency existed which the Federal Government should deal with. Some scheme of social legislation in the form of unemployment insurance had been suggested.

No request from Alberta or Saskatchewan, he said, had been received for unemployment relief. Yet, the premier stated, "we have been in touch with the premier of each province on the question of natural resources." The premier of Manitoba had not asked for any assistance, he continued, nor had the premier of Ontario made any such request. "And," the prime minister asserted, "we have a wire from the premier of Quebec that he does not want any assistance."

The premiers of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island had not, he declared, sent any communications for relief. "The only request was from a 'few gentlemen' who had come to Ottawa, Premier King said.

There had been no representations, Premier King stated, except from some parts of Western Canada, and chiefly from those who were making a certain attitude on the budget debate and desired to indicate that an emergency existed.

Question Of General Election Discussed

But No Official Statement Is Issued For Press

Ottawa, Ont.—The question of a general election was discussed at a recent caucus of the Liberal party.

White's official statement was issued at the conclusion of the meeting, it is understood. Premier Mackenzie King stated that he was not more decided whether to hold an election this year or in 1931, than he was three months ago. But, at the same time, it is said the prime minister warned members they should be prepared to make preparations and continue to make preparations.

The views of a number of private members were expressed; and it is understood, that in the course of this discussion a suggestion was made that the date of 25 next, might possibly be the date for a election.

Folks Get the Blues When It's Mid-Winter In The Arctic

Winnipeg, Man.—All the top-of-the-world folk get the blues when it's mid-winter in the arctic. This is the comment of William Murray, manager of the Hudson's Bay Company post at Herschel Island, off the north shore of Canada. He refers to the brief period when daytime is a generous word for two hours of murky twilight.

From November 26 until January 16, observes Mr. Murray, no sun is visible at Herschel Island. Little or no travelling is done although there is fairly good light at mid-day, when a red glare appears in the southern sky. For days before the sun's re-appearances around eagerly on top of their igloos, seeking first glimpse of Old Sol.

Menaced By Oil Gusher

Fire Hazard Threatens Lives and Property Of Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Okla.—A great gusher roared like a young volcano in the backyard of Oklahoma City, while men made futile efforts to control a spot of gas and oil unleashed in the race for riches.

The gusher has driven inhabitants from its environs, deluged the surrounding area with a blinding spray of oil, filling ravines with gas and threatened lives and property with a fire hazard.

A public driven by the tremendous flow of gas released into the sky, might strike the spark which would envelop the countryside in flames.

Reserve Bank For Australia

If Established, Will Have Ten Million Dollars Capital

Canberra, Australia.—Hon. E. G. Theodore, Commonwealth treasurer, introduced in the House of Assembly a bill to create a central reserve bank similar to the Central Reserve Bank of South Africa. The bank will have a capital of $10,000,000, drawn from the Commonwealth bank, and the board will include representatives of labor.

The proposal marks another step in the Labor government's comprehensive program, for restoration of the economic and financial position of Australia, a program which also includes a compulsory wheat-marketing pool.

War Reparations

Ottawa.—Canada has received $19,151,436 in payment of war reparations. Hon. Fernand Rinfret, secretary of state, informed the House of Commons in reply to a question from Earl Lawson (Con., York West). The question also asked the amount paid out of reparations for claims awarded by the reparations commission. The reply to this was that no sums were paid out of the amount received for reparations. Payments were paid under the provisions of the reparations payment act.

Famine Takes Heavy Toll

Hundred Die Every Day In Chinese Province Of Shensi

New York, N.Y.—People are dying at the rate of one hundred a day in the plains of the Shensi province in the famine stricken area of China, according to a report received from Mrs. Philip S. Dutton, at Taku, in North China.

Mrs. Dutton, formerly of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., estimates that by the beginning of summer two-thirds of the population will be dead. The inhabitants, she says, are tearing down their houses and selling the material to obtain money for food. In every yard is a pile of leaves which the owners are gone they will die. Mrs. Dutton says.

STUDY VARIOUS PROBLEMS OF GRAIN INDUSTRY

Ottawa, Ont.—Three fellowships established by the Canadian Wheat Pool to further scientific research in problems of the Western Canadian grain industry, each having an annual value of $1,200 have been awarded by the National Research Council.

As announced the successful candidates are:

R. G. Dunlop, B.Sc., University of Saskatchewan, who will undertake research in the Department of Field Crops and Plant Biochemistry of the University of Alberta.

H. R. Sallans, B.Sc., University of Saskatchewan, who will undertake research in the Department of Wheat Chemistry of the University of Saskatchewan.

G. A. Winkler, B.Sc., University of Manitoba, who will undertake research in the Department of Agricultural Chemistry of the University of Manitoba.

Sixty-five persons have been successful in securing a national research council post-graduate research scholarship, tenable in Canadian universities during the year 1930-31. This year considerably more than twice as many applications were received as there were awards available, says a statement issued recently by the Research Council.

Three classes of post-graduate scholarships are awarded, known as bursaries, studentships, and fellowships, having an annual value of $750, $1,000 and $1,200 respectively.

These awards are provided to enable Canadian students who have graduated with distinction from a university to continue their training in science until they have qualified for a Ph.D. degree in order to build up a corps of thoroughly trained research workers for service in Canadian industries, universities and in the technical departments of the federal and provincial governments.

Cosgrave who had been defeated by a narrow margin recently on an old age pensions bill, was chosen for his old post by the Dail after De Valera and the Laborite leader, T. J. O'Connell, had been thrust aside in turn.

The successive votes were: For De Valera: 54 for, 83 opposed. For O'Connell: 15 for, 78 opposed. For Cosgrave: 80 for, 55 opposed.

Nelson, B.C.—A nude demonstration Sunday by eight non-community Doukhobors, who interrupted the preaching of Peter Verigin at the annual meeting of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, at Brilliant, was followed by further disorders Monday night by about 200 who did not go to the extent of disturbing. The provincial police from Nelson were called out to maintain order.

The demonstration resulted in a committee being appointed by the conference to interview the malcontents, who demanded the privilege of living in close association with the community without obligation to pay rates or obey the laws. They were then requested to leave.

Jews In Quebec Are Granted Separate School Rights

Quebec, Que.—By a vote of 52 to 5 the Quebec Legislative Assembly approved giving separate schools to the Jewish people on the Island of Montreal.

Hon. Athanasius David, provincial secretary, explained the bill, and said it spoke for the attitude of tolerance which the province has always taken as regards minorities. Premier Taschereau made it clear he stands against the neutral school, and for this he also favored the bill. He hoped that Jewish schools are established they will be along lines of good Canadian thought.

LIQUOR EXPORT BILL OPPOSED IN THE SENATE

Ottawa, Ont.—A declaration by Senator Charles E. Tanner, of Halifax, that in his opinion the government bill to prohibit liquor clearances to shipments destined for the United States appeared to have been "dictated from Washington," featured discussion of this measure in the Senate.

The entire time of the Senate during a brief sitting was devoted to discussion of the bill. Senator Tanner occupied the major part of the time in a long speech supporting the Conservative amendment to the motion for second reading.

This amendment which was moved by Senator W. B. Willoughby, Conservative leader in the Senate, asks that the bill be not read a second time at present, "but that it be referred to a special committee, to be selected by the Senate, for the purpose of first obtaining information as to the effect the passing of the bill would have on the economic national and international conditions and relations of Canada."

Sensor Tanner asserted that the bill could commit Canada to a policy of the prevention of liquor export to the United States.

"The more we give these people, the more they want," said Senator Tanner, with reference to the United States. As far as the government of the United States was concerned he considered it both "foolishness and selfish."

"The United States," he declared, always got the best of any bargain that it entered into with Canada. Are they taking our interests into consideration in the tariffs they are framing?" asked Senator Tanner, in elaborating on his declaration that the United States consequently looked after its own interest exclusively. "How about the Chicago diversion? Are we getting any nearer to a solution of that?"

Sensor Tanner said that the United States representatives in London today were saying: "Here we are. If you care to come to our terms there'll be an agreement." The senator expressed admiration for the point of view which he attributed to the United States. They were looking after their own interests, and he wished that the government of Canada would take a similar attitude in respect to the Dominion.

There were two other speakers. Senator Nathaniel Curry of Nova Scotia, said he would not vote for the bill. In his opinion with the withdrawal of Canada's liquor exports from the United States would not affect the situation in that country. Canada exported about two per cent of the liquor consumed in the United States. If the manufacturers would very soon make up that deficiency.

BRANCH LINES TO SERVE NEW WESTERN AREAS

Winnipeg.—Covering nearly 90 miles leading into rich agricultural territory in Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Canadian Pacific Railway has just let contracts for grade construction of four branch lines, it was announced by D. C. Coleman, vice-president of western lines.

These touch Choceland and Prince Albert, Sominigdale, Rockglen and Leduc. The contracts cover less than half of the railway's present grading program, and it is expected that tenders will be let this month for a substantially increased amount for branch lines.

When completed this year, the Tufford-Prince Albert line will give over 90 miles of new road north of the Saskatchewan River extending northwest from the new Nipawin bridge in land so rich in agricultural promise that it is quickly rapidly being settled up. This branch will be a significant part of the company's lines radiating from Prince Albert. The present contract covers the road from Choceland westerly, a distance of 23 miles.

Projected to afford railway facilities to a large number of farmers who are located south of the Saskatchewan, the Sominigdale line also traverses a rich farming district between Saskatoon and North Battleford.

From Rockglen westerly is a continuation of the company's Pike Lake branch to afford transportation to a district of exceptional agricultural possibilities, the area now being settled by British families brought to Canada by the co-operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the British Government.

Approximately 20,000 acres have been divided into quarter section farms supplied with the necessary farm houses, out building, horses, cattle and machinery. Additional contingents of settlers arriving this spring will profit by this transportation advantage.

The connecting of Lacombe and Western lines with Edmonton and Leduc, on the Calgary and Edmonton road, will furnish better access to the Alberta capital for the entire district. In addition, this rounds out the plan for the entire line and makes it suitable for the improved operating conditions now under consideration. The line as now built, will considerably shorten the haul for large numbers now engaged in mixed farming.

Early Seeding Operations

Saskatchewan Farmer Has Sown 200 Acres Of Wheat

Saskatoon.—Here's a record in spring operations for farmers of the West to shoot at. Thomas Willis of Harris, 50 miles southwest of here, had sown nearly 200 acres of wheat when his outfit pulled out of the fields recently.

Mr. Willis, who is one of the "Big Four" farmers of the entire district, the soil badly in need of moisture. For a depth of eight inches the land was like powder, he said. A few other farmers in Harris district are seeding. P. Moon, who farms at Grasswood, sown nine miles built, has plowed up 20 acres of brown grass. He plowed four inches deep and found no frost.

Outrages At Neudorf

Reward Of $500 Is Offered For Conviction Of Offenders

Neudorf, Sask.—The municipality of McLeod has offered a reward of $500 for the conviction of the parties believed to be waging a Vendetta against Louis Ulmer, a farmer of this district and his family. Last September, when the farm was in possession of Ulmer's father, four horses and two cows were killed in a peculiarly cruel manner, and subsequently the granary was burned down, 1,400 bushels of wheat being destroyed. Recently two more horses, a cow and a calf were killed outright and four horses badly injured.

Australia Plans Larger Acreage

Melbourne, Australia.—Addition of a million acres to the wheat growing area of the state of Victoria is the aim of the state government. Hon. William Slater, state treasurer, recently announced the associated banks in co-operation with the government are making $1,000,000 available for sowing additional wheat acreage.

All the relics of King Tutankhamen will be removed from his tomb by the end of this year.

THROUGH good management the modern woman, just as the chataleine of old, holds in her hands the keys to plenty: only to-day good measure comes through prudence in money matters.

On the afternoon of Tuesday, April the 1st, Eric Gunner, piloting the Blakely plane of Sinclair, circled the Kimberley cemetery and dropped a wreath upon the grave of his wife, who was buried the previous Sunday with military honors, thus closing the page of life of one whose time had been devoted considerably to the service of her country. As the plane slowly circled the city, Kimberley with face upturned and with glistening eye witnessed the last act in one of life's dramas. Gunner's farewell

Chief Ranger Antel and his assistant T. Best, were down from the Gap on Friday and Saturday last. They were accompanied by Jack Morden, who has trapping rights in the region of Race Horse and Dutch Creeks.
